MARCH 8, AMERICAN RED CROSS SUNDAY

ARC FOR SERVICE — Nearly everyone is aware of the major activitis of the American Red Cross — its quick response to aid victims of disasters, the aid it furnishes the armed forces and its bloodmobiles and blood banks. But there are many small services the organization furnishes that many times go unnoticed by the public. The Carmel Chapter is unique in that it is the only chapter operating an ambulance service for the community. And another is a kind of "transportation service" for Carmel's Senior Citizens. Each week, the Red Cross station wagon, manned by a volunteer, picks up Senior Citizens who request the service and takes them to a supermarket in the area, either Safeway or Purity. Then to Carmel Valley to purchase eggs. And then to a scenic point where psyche's are replenished by contemplation of the beauties of the Carmel area. Our photographer followed Mrs. George Marston, volunteer driver at the right in the picture at right, as she aids Mrs. Gladys Anderson unload a bag of groceries. Far right, outside the Carmel Rancho Safeway, Mrs. Soleika Hicks, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Roy Neeley, Mrs. R. M. Sevier and Roy Neely load purchases into the Chapter's spacious station wagon. Then the stop on Scenic Drive for a few moments of quiet contemplation of the loveliness that is Carmel. March is National American Red Cross month, and the Carmel Red Cross will conduct its annual drive for funds to support, not only major programs, but these small, human minor services as well.

To the Candidates for Carmel City Council

On April 14, Carmel voters will go to the polls to choose two of five candidates running for the City Council..

The five men–Gunner Norberg, Ken Brown, Charles McEwen, Leslie Cross and Bernard Anderson--have all declared themselves for this non-paying job because they feel they have something to offer the community.

The Pine Cone will offer its columns each week from now until the election to the candidates for statements of their opinions, platforms, attitudes or anything else they wish to say – within the limit of 250 words.

Each week we will run a column in which these opinions, issues and statements will appear.

Gentlemen, the column is yours. Please remember our deadline is Tuesday noon.

Bank of America reacts to mob destruction by fire of firm's Goleta branch

The Bank of America, understandably outraged at the wanton destruction by a mob of its branch office in Goleta, has announced a four-step response that includes the filing of civil suits against participants in the arson.

In filing the "John Doe" suits, the bank said, "We intend to seek and collect maximum civil damages from the participants."

Other steps taken by the bank after the Feb. 25 burning of its Isla-Vista Branch were:

Dispatching a letter to Gov. Reagan and the mayors of major cities calling for prompt and effective measures ',to stop the wanton destruction that is defacing our land";

Asking the Grand Jury in Santa Barbara to convene as soon as possible to issue criminal indictments for arson against all participants in the burning;

Offering a reward, totalling $25,000, for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the leaders of the mob violence.

Speaking at a press conference in San Francisco, Samuel B. Stewart, vice chairman of the bank's board, termed the branch destruction "an insurrection against the democratic process of the kind that leads to further violence, bloodshed and anarchy. We are deeply concerned, not only for ourselves, but for the physical and material welfare of all our citizens.

Stewart said that Bank of America has been identififed "as a symbol of the establishment."

"So be it. We are proud to be a symbol of the establishment in the real sense of the meaning of that word: established law and order; established orderly process; established principles of the sanctity of life and property; established democratic functioning for the redress of grievances.

"We are also proud to be identified as a symbol of an outraged citizenry that is completely fed up with the senseless and lawless destruction that has been allowed to go unchecked.

"One of the greatest dangers in our current situation is that an angered citizenry will take things in their own hands. We don't want to see that happen and so we all call upon established authorities to exercise their responsibilites in bringing this wanton lawlessness swiftly and completely to an end."

Lobsters were so numerous when the first white settlers came to New England that when storms washed large numbers ashore at Plymouth Colony they were used for fertilizer.

NEW LEASE – Fred Holt, center, signs the papers leasing to Market Trends a store on Ocean Avenue in Carmel which will carry a complete line of Hallmark Cards, party ideas and similar items. Partners in the firm Philip Skutt, left, and Steven Pope watch the signing.

'Cards, Candles and Things' opens Mar. 7 on Ocean Ave.

Fred Holt, president of Market Trends, Inc., has announced that the company will open a new retail store on Carmel's Ocean Avenue between Mission and San Carlos Streets.

"Cards, Candles & Things" will be the name of the new social expression shop scheduled for a Mar. 7 opening, according to Mr. Holt.

"Fourteen hundred square feet will be devoted to a complete Hallmark line of greeting cards, gift wrap, party supplies and stationery along with a quality line of gifts," Holt said.

Market Trends, a Monterey-based marketing firm recently announced its merger with the Hallmark Card & Party Shop in Del Monte Center.

Officers of the corporation are Fred Holt, president; Philip Skutt of Portland, Oregon, vice president and Steven Pope, secretary-treasurer.

School Board hears details of drug prevention program

A sound filmstrip and a film on drugs and drug prevention were previewed before the Carmel Unified School District at their Thursday night board meeting.

The materials were presented as part of an interim report on drug education by a committee under the direction of Dr. James Halcomb, assistant superintendent of industrial service.

Dr. Halcomb reported that two full days were spent discussing materials and reviewing problems. Most of the films reviewed by the committee were five or more years old. They were moralistic and out of date and the board felt that they would be less useful than the non judgemental visual aids the group preferred.

Filmstrips in a series covering drugs in our society had been viewed by both the committee members and the junior high school students. They covered tobacco, alcohol, prescription drugs, marijuana, narcotics and L.S.D.

Halcomb reported that high school students who had previewed the filmstrip thought that it was an accurate account of information they had already acquired. They suggested that grades 6 and 7 would benefit more from the series than grade 11.

Following discussion of the filmstrip, the film, an introductory preview of a proposed 15 to 20-hour program, was shown to board members.

The drug education program would involve books, films and simulation devices designed to create understanding and awareness of the problems connected with drug abuse for children in grades 7 through 9.

Superintendent Harris Taylor said that when instructional materials are finally selected, a course in drug abuse would become a part of the science requirement for all junior high school students.

In other business, Supt. Taylor reported that a hearing will be held on Mar. 25 to consider the use permit request of the Monterey County Road Department to build a County maintenance yard and to lease property to the Carmel Unified School District for construction of a bus and maintenance compound.

Supt. Taylor said that five factors had been considered in planning a suitable site for a bus compound – a well hidden location that would not affect property values in the area, low noise level, highway safety to and from Carmel Valley road and the prevention of vandalism and theft. He said that each of the three sites are strong in some areas and weak in others.

In compliance with the requirements of California's new declaration of assets law, the board decided that if the legislation requiring financial disclosure of public employers goes into effect, the superintendent, as well as the assistant to the superintendent and the business manager would have to comply.

Supt. Taylor said that if the law is not repealed, April 14 will be the deadline for filing disclosure reports.

It was decided by the board that Hilton Bialek, president, would participate in the graduate exercises to be held June 12 at Carmel High School and Trustees James I. Miller would present awards at the Middle School commencement ceremony on June 11.

Friday deadline for Heart kits

Heart fund volunteers who have not yet turned in collection kits may do so at the Carmel branch of the Bank of America for the remainder of the week.

According to Carmel fund drive chairman Mrs. Gerry Reeves, the flu and other rainy weather ailments have resulted in about half of the volunteers not turning in kits, and this extension beyond the deadline has been arranged to accommodate late collections.

Marine Lab open house Mar. 7

The Moss Landing Marine Laboratores will hold an open house from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday, Mar. 7.

Film strips, motion pictures, speakers and student displays will feature the open house, and coffee, punch and cookies will be served.

The public is invited to this unique installation and the activities that will be in progress.

Padre Parents Car

A 1960 Impala Coupe has been presented by Gwin Montgomery of Roller Chevrolet to the Padre Parents of the Carmel High School for disposition at their annual "Bargain Fair" to be held Saturday, March 14th at the high school Gym.

A donation to the school's Scholarship Fund is invited.

The coupe is completely equipped,–air-conditioning, new paint, et al. Ideal for a town run-about, or do you have a teen-ager?

CBA Directory

The Carmel Business Association reminds members and prospective members that Mar. 13 has been set as the deadline for corrected copy to be compiled for the 1970 Directory, which it sends out in numbers exceeding 35,000 a year.

Statements have just been mailed to CBA members and it is hoped will be expedited by the importance of correct directory data.

Correction

Last week the Pine Cone erroneously attributed City Council candidate Leslie C. Gross to Del Monte Properties.

Actually, Gross is a property manager for the Carmel Realty Company.

That's quite a difference, and our apologies.

Carmel Chapter Chatter

A man who often brings magazines to the Chapter for the patients at Fort Ord had to step aside one day recently for the delivery of some huge bundles.

"Hey," he said, "what goes on around here?" "Oh, that's the diaper material at last," said a voice from the production room.

The visitor was shown the finshed layette items; one kind for refugee babies in Vietnam, others going to military hospitals; the long-sleeved coat sweaters for hospitalized veterans; the ditty bags for servicemen, as well as knitted crutch pads, decorated juice cans and paperback books that went with his magazines to Fort Ord.

"Well, you just never know – at least I didn't know – that the Red Cross did all of those things."

A frail little woman with shaky hands removed a long printed form from an envelope stamped "Veteran's Administration" and said spologetically, "I'm sorry to bother you, but it said here I could ask the Red Cross to help me fill this out." As she left half an hour later with the required information neatly typed in the blank spaces, she commented with touching gratitude, "I don't know what I ever would have done if they hadn't told me to come to the Red Cross. I didn't realize you helped with something like this."

"I've lived in Carmel for almost 30 years and never knew I could borrow a pair of crutches from the Red Cross until my doctor told me." This from a woman living within four blocks of the Chapter.

An accident victim who received Red Cross ambulance service wrote: "I have contributed to the Red Cross all my life thinking my money was going to help others. I never dreamed there would ever be a time when I needed the Red Cross."

A new volunteer who had chosen to work in the chapter office was obviously impressed as she heard the experienced volunteer on duty say into the phone, "I'll read that back. From F D Sta H-E-A-M. retal I M Robert Smith, 7274698, N-A-S-U-P-P-A-C-T, FPO, SF 96695 Milauth granted 15 days emergency leave, plans depart first available Milair ETA Conus unknown."

"Gee," said the new volunteer, "do you know what all that means?"

"No," was the reply. "I just take the message as it is phoned from Fort Ord. Maybe Miss James will interpret it for us."

"It is from the Red Cross Field Director," said Miss James. "The station H-E-A-M, which I happen to know, in this case, is in the Philippines, retel, replying to our wire regarding the serviceman, his serial, unit and address; 'Milauth' means the Military Authority which has granted 15 days emergency leave, the man will depart in the first available military plane, his ETA, or expected time of arrival in "Conus" for Continental U.S., is unknown."

"Yesterday, after the serviceman's father phoned to say the mother was critically ill at Community Hospital and he thought the son should come home, I contacted the doctor to verify the seriousness of Mrs. Smith's condition, which we always must do, then phoned the Red Cross operator at Ford Ord who sent the message over TWX to Amcross. That's Red Cross rapid communications in Washington, D.C. I'll now call Mr. Smith to let him know that Robert is to be here soon." "All the way from the Philippines. Isn't that wonderful! Do we have to do this often?" asked the new volunteer.

"Fortunately, no," was the answer, "but when we do, it's very important to the people concerned."

Appreciation

The local news media deserves a hearty "Thank you" for their cooperation in helping us tell the Red Cross Story, not only in March but throughout the year.

Of special interest to us locally are our two weekly newspapers, the Carmel Pine Cone and the Carmel Valley Outlook. Carlton Brown, editor of the Pine Cone and George Dobry, publisher of the Carmel Valley Outlook, support our programs enthusiastically and give us space of great value.

Ted Durein, of the Monterey Peninsula Herald and Evelyn Londahl, editor of the womens page recognize the Red Cross as an important service agency to the community and to the large number of armed forces personnel living in the Peninsula.

The Herald also prints many items obtained from the national news services concerning Red Cross activities in disasters, aid to victims of the war in Nigeria and Red Cross efforts on behalf of the U.S. men held prisoner in North Vietnam.

Radio and TV stations in our area continue to broadcast pertinent, timely news items and announcements. None has ever refused to give time for material that is of public interest.

If you have occasion to meet any of the staff of the local news media a personal word of thanks is in order.

Keeping Up with Our Youth

Thomasina Turner, who went to Latin America last summer, with the Friendship Latin America program, has been requested to assist this year's recruits in the program. Thomasina is now attending the University of New Mexico, so, at this time, we do not know if she can be available and is interested in spending another summer in Latin America — but, it's nice to be asked.

Robert L. Kitschbach, Jr., was encouraged by the chapter to apply to be an American Red Cross delegate to the important Konnichiwas 70 Seminar in Japan. Bob is now attending U.C. at Davis where he first went as a Red Cross youth delegate to the Leadership Training Conference while he was attending the Carmel High School. He is now in his second year as a pre-med student. He also plays in the U.C. marching band. Bob also attended the Red Cross National Aquatic School and has spent his summers as a Life Guard and Water Safety Instructor. We don't know if he will be chosen as only two young people from the whole country will go as U.S. Representatives, but it is worth a try and he just might win acceptance as one of the lucky applicants.

For Example

Who makes a good volunteer? Who makes a good volunteer for a military hospital? We present Mrs. van Court (Lucile) Warren and Mrs. Harold (Donna) Monaghan, both busy women, they have raised families, always had many outside interest, are objective, interesting and interested.

Lucile, Carmel Chapter's Chairman for Military Hospital Volunteers, is the widow of an army officer so knows military life and has traveled extensively. She started her career as a school teacher in San Jose, where she was born, and has taken part in community activities on Military posts and inthe civilian setting ever since. The fact that she is not only a grandmother but a great grandmother as well fazes her not at all. At present Lucile is President of the local organization for the Guide Dogs for the Blind, active in the Monterey History and Art Association, a working member of the Community Hospital and Art Association, a working member of the Community Hospital auxiliary — all in addition to her Red Cross work — and loves to cook and entertain.

Donna, also a native of California, has four children all in young adulthood. Fun and hard work combined for the seventeen years she and her husband owned and operated Lake Side Resort at Lake Tahoe, living in Berkeley in the winter. How did she have time to study music, belong to a womans club, a yyacht club, play golf and work for Red Cross? She did. These days Donna plays the piano and organ, sings in a church choir, plays golf, and does many Red Cross volunteer services. She is a Personal Service volunteer at the military hospital, works at Bloodmobiles, and, last summer took on Project Shop Early — the coordinating of the gathering of the gifts, filling the ditty bags, packing them and getting them shipped to Vietnam in time.

Production – Three Deep

This is what we call real organization and cooperation. The busy Production Department has a chairman, Mrs. H. (Patsy) Danelz, a co-chairman, Mrs. Helen Cowan Wood, and a back-up chairman, Miss Marian Adams. We need them all, as you will see.

Patsy and her husband leave March 2nd for a spring and summer tour of southern Europe. Helen Wood will be gone for a whole year, headquartering in Nice, France. In spite the fact that Patsy has put in many overtime hours completing all present quotas and with her helpers is all caught-up until fall, Marian Adams will be on hand in case of emergency.

To give some idea of the acoomplishments of the 72 members of the Production Service during the past year here is a list of their 1969 achievements:

38 long sleeved coat sweaters for the veteran's hospital

22 layettes that went to the C B's hospital at Port Hueneme.

60 layettes for the refugee babies in Vietnam.

143 knitted crutch pads for the patients at Fort Ord.

3 afghans for the veterans hospital.

555 ditty bags (400 for Christmas).

76 pair of bed socks requested for the military hospital in Alaska.

Bon Voyage, and a happy time to the travelers, they deserve a fien holiday.

Concerning Conservation

by Lorna Moffat

The timber wolf is now a member of the Department of Interior's ever-growing list of animals in danger of extinction.

There are approximately 5,325 wolves left in the United States – 5,000 in Alaska, 300 in Lake Superior's National Forest, Minnesota, and 25 on the Isle Royale, Michigan.

A few loners still inhabit northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Yellowstone Park, but as far as zoologists know, are not breeding.

Despite its growing rarity, the wolf is still persecuted by man without mercy. He is poisoned, trapped, and pursued by aircraft into regions where man would otherwise never venture. Many times when hunted by aircraft, the wolf who has not a chance to escape, is shot at a dozen times until he is too crippled to move and then is left to suffer and die. It is a sad commentaryon the characters of today's hunters that many even admit to enjoying the spectacle of watching the animal die.

The waste of wolf-life because of man's greed, fear and ignorance of him, is staggering. It is estimated that the U.S. Government has spent $10,000,000,000 for wolf bounties alone. In the year 1968-69 4,350 timber wolf pelts were offered for sale. The total wolf population of the Canadian Northwest is estimated at less than 3,000. Unless drastic measures are taken by the public now our great yellow-eyed brother, the symbol of wilderness and Nature itself will be extinguished of its life forever.

Contrary to belief, the wolf is a peaceable being and not the slathering, snarling grandmother-eating beast once thought to be. According to recent observations from zoologists, the wolves have all the noble characteristics man likes to attribute to himself. They mate for life, they are loyal, self-sacrificing, intelligent, impeccable conservationists, sociable, clean and excellent providers for their young.

The wolf was meant to be man's friend and not his enemy. The Indian referred to the wolf as his brother. He saw long before white man what role the wolf played in maintaining the balance of Nature. As a big game predator the wolf has been assigned the job of keeping down the deer herd populations as well as strengthening their particular strains. The wolf has not the speed nor stamina to outrun a healthy deer or fawn. He can only capture the deformed, sick, old or fatally. worm-infested. Thus a nerd kept clean by wolves is a herd free from imperfections that might otherwise be carried off into the offspring. The swift does, the large and powerful males with their great tree of antlers are left to breed and be sought after as trophies by man.

Conservationists, after long research, have realized man's terrible mistake in trying to exterminate the wolf. Yellowstone Park officials are practically begging the wolf to make a come-back and help them control the enormous elk-populations. Three wolves were sighted last Nov. 8 and the park officials attitude was, "We are delighted they are back!"

We will never be able to apologize to the wolf for the irreparable damage we have done to his species but we can make small amends by inviting him back to live amongst his forest and amongst man as a brother and natural Shepherd of the deer.

Man has already, in the last 300 years, brought 131 species of animals into extinction. It is time we did something to stop it. We must fulfill obligations to children yet unborn and preserve our National wild life for their delight and wonderment. You can start by saving the wolf. Your letters, your contributions, however small, will give a new lease on life to an otherwise doomed species.

Reviews for Young Readers

by Allene Fremier

Evaline Ness, Caldecott Medal winner for her Sam, Bangs and Moonshine, has a new book out which is an adaptation of a Bohemian fairy tale.

She has illustrated and adapted the Andrew Lang version of Long, Broad and Quickeye.

A young prince has set out to rescue the sad, beautiful girl whom he has chosen to be his bride. She is imprisoned by a wicked sorcerer in a mysterious castle. He meets three men along the way who offer to help him. Long is the first one he meets and he is able to lengthen his body at will. The next companion is Broad, who can make himself as wide as he pleases. The last one is Quickeye, who can not only see for long distances, but his eyes can pierce through anything.

With his three helpers, the prince sets off to rescue the princess. Each one's talent is needed before the final rescue. The prince marries his princess and then his three companions bid him goodbye. He begs them to stay, but they say they cannot live an idle life, but most be off to help someone else. A charming story, handsomely illustrated.

Another lovely book dealing with folk talkes is a re-issue of a favorite volume which contains twenty-one Norwegian tales, selected, edited and illustrated by Ingri and Edgar Parin d'Aulaire.

The title is East of the Sun and West of the Moon, which is also the name of one of the stories in the collection.

The stories abound in such creatures as trolls and water sprites, giant horses, talking cats and cinderlads.

The full-age illustrations are excellent and match the mood of these gentle stories. Reading these tales to children would be a rewarding experience for both the reader and the read-to.

For a complete change of pace, try The Rock Revolution; What's happening in today's music, by Arnold Shaw. As the book jacket says: "Here . . . is the whole exciting and remarkable saga of rock: from Elvis Presley and rockabilly to Negro rhythm-and-blues; to Bob Dylan and folk rock; to the Beatles and the rise of the British rock groups; to electronic; raga and psychedelic rock and soul."

What more can I say?

Although this is not exactly the season for this next book, let me mention a picture book which I enjoy.

The first of these two is called Santa Mouse, by Michael Brown, which tells about how a little mouse becomes Santa's helper.

The next one, which we unfortunately received after Christmas, is Santa Mouse, Where Are You? It is one more little adventure that this winning creature has when he falls out of Santa's sleigh and has to figure a way for Santa to find him. He is such an appealing fellow that he is not really restricted to just the Christmas season.

In fact, Santa Mouse, Where are You? at this very moment is checked out.

Tonkin heads 20 doctors to Washington

Thomas E. Tonkin, administrator of Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, last week headed a delegation of 20 members of the California Hospital Association to bring critical problems in health care to the attention of 23 California congressmen in Washington.

The group was in the capital for the four-day annual meeting of the American Hospital Association, attended by more than 200 officers from hospitals throughout the nation.

Under discussion were federal aid for hospital construction, national health insurance, manpowers supply, cost of hospital care, Medicare, Medicaid (Medi-Cal in California) and comprehensive health planning. Also on the agenda was compromise legislation following President Nixon's veto of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's budget.

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

Even though I find myself back in the hospital as of this writing for a second go around with a slight pneumonia bug, by the time you read this article (if you do read it) I should be back in Sacramento tending to the business of our people in Monterey County.

The next time the doctor says stay in bed and don't return to work until you are completely well, I will take him more seriously. They say trial and error is a great teacher. I think I have learned my lesson by making the error.

You have read quite a bit about the controversial conflict of interest bill concering elected public officials. This bill was authored by Assemblyman Jesse Unruh, presently a candidate for governor, in 1969 and it was approved by both Democratic and Republican parties.

Basically, the new law requires public officials, raning from city councilmen and water district directors to the Governor and State Supreme Court Justices, to disclose any investment of $10,000 or more, in a business regulated by the State or a local agency, along with a full financial statement.

The bill apparently has not done what it was intended to do and every legislator has received nothing but complaints about the possible repercussions from such a bill.

The bill was approved in April of last year and I didn't arrive in Sacramento until last June. Therefore, I am glad to say I had nothing to do with its passage.

One of the major complaints about the new bill is that it applies the same blanket provision to local public officers, many of whom serve without compensation of any kind, as it does to high ranking State officials. It is hard enough to find willing, competent candidates for these low or non-paying offices without subjecting individuals to a full disclosure of their financial assets no matter how irrevelant to their elective position.

The Carmel City Council realized that it would raise havoc with our democratic system if competent men refused to accept everyday public obligations because they would be forced to list a personal financial statement before the public. Therefore, the Carmel City Council filed an appeal with the local Superior Court claiming unconstitutionality of the law. The Court ruled against the Council but the action passed through the Court of Appeals and is now being considered by the State Supreme Court.

When I was in Sacramento last week, between trips to the hospital, the proponents and opponents of the bill met head on. A bill was introduced by Assemblyman Chappie a personal friend of mine and an Assemblyman whose district includes several mountain counties in the northeast part of the State. He proposed to extend the date of compliance with the bill to Apr. 6, thus giving the Assembly and Senate a chance to try and straighten out the difficulties in the original bill. Jesse Unruh vigorously debated on the floor that the bill should be enacted as now written and William Monagan, Speaker of the Assembly, argued just as vigorously for postponement.

The end result shows the power of the people. Only 10 legislators voted with Unruh. Fifty-eight voted to extend it to see if a better bill couldn't be written by April 6.

Too many legislators, Republican and Democratic alike, had heard from the hundreds of elected officals throughout the State who are not satisfied with the original bill and in this case political affiliation meant nothing. It was (I personally think) democracy in action. democracy in action.

Enough for now . . . .

NEW V-P — Dr. Joseph L. Dionne of Carmel Valley, general manager of CTB/McGraw-Hill Book Company, has been appointed vice president of McGraw-Hill Book company. Since he joined CTB/McGraw Hill (formerly California Test Bureau which pioneered standardized testing techniques), he has speerheaded an expanded program providing products and evaluation services enabling schools throughout the nation to meet cultural and educational needs of the community. Dionne, his wife Joan and their three children are members of the Carmel Valley Racquet Club, Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and Carmel Presbyterian Church. He is a member of the board of directors for the SABL School and PACE Foundation.

Sandor Salgo will observe 15th anniversary with Carmel's Bach Festival from July 17 to 26

Programs of unusual interest and diversity and soloists of international rank will attract audiences from all over the United States for the 33rd annual Carmel Bach Festival, July 17th through July 26th.

Conductor Sandor Salgo will be observing his 15th year as musical director of the famed Festival Orchestra, Chorus and Chorale. Priscilla Salgo and Kenneth Ahrens will again serve as the musical director's choral assistants.

Sunset Auditorium will be the setting for the evening and matinee concerts with most of the morning recitals held in the Parish Hall of All Saints Episcopal Church.

The famed Mission concert will be held on Wednesday, July 22 at 10 p.m. in the Carmel Mission Basilica and Salgo has plans to perform music from the Golden Age of Spain and the Missions of the New World.

Thomas Paul, one of America's leading basses who is in constant demand as soloist with major orchestras and recording companies and beloved by Festival audiences, will be a featured soloist in Bach's Mass in B minor on Sunday, July 19 as will Mary Ellen Pracht, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera; tenor, Seth McCoy; contralto Christine Krooskos and baritone Douglas Lawrence who will make his fourth appearance in Festival programs

Donald Peck, solo flutist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will be a new name on the Festival soloists' roster and will add his brilliance to several of the programs. Miss Sonya Monosoff, distinguished violinist from Massachusetts, will be another outstanding new soloist as will Madame Joanna Graudan, Southern California pianist who is a member of the music faculty of the School of Performing Arts at the University of Southern California.

Fernando Valenti, internationally known harpsichordist, Jascha Silberstein, first cellist with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, Ladd Thomas, organist and Anne Adams, harpist, will join such familiar names as Mary Esther Nicola, soprano; Glenna de Weese, contralto; Raymond Duste, oboe; Edward Haug, trumpet; Christopher Williams, lute; Ralph Linsley, harpsichord; and Kenneth Ahrens, organ, in making the 1970 Fetival worthy of widespread attention.

Brochures announcing the concert programs, recitals and lectures in detail will soon be available for general mailing and distribution according to Mrs. Elizabeth N. Cope, executive secretary of the Festival.

SEPTEMBER WEDDING PLANNED – At a reception for family and friends, Mrs. Edith Cox Clancy of Carmel announced the engagement of her daughter, Cathleen Edith Clancy to George Michael Wells of San Francisco. Mrs. Clancy is the newly appointed manager of the Beach and Tennis Club, Pebble Beach. Cathy, whose father is John A. Clancy of Carmel, is a graduate of Santa Catalina and the University of Arizona. She was formerly a stewardess for TWA and is presently employed in the Public Relations Office of the Pacific Telephone Company in San Francisco. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wells of San Francisco, is a graduate of San Francisco State College and is employed by the U.S. Treasury Department in San Francisco. The couple plan a September wedding in Carmel with a reception to be held at the Beach and Tennis Club.

Kathy Raney, Phil Dirickson wed in Los Angeles ceremony

Philip Andrew Dirickson of Pebble Beach and Kathleen Mary Raney of Los Angeles received the Papal blessing of Pope Paul VI at their wedding Feb. 7. The couple were married in the Cathedral Chapel, Los Angeles. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James E. Dolan officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony.

Philip is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Dirickson of Pebble Beach.

Kathleen, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Aiden A. Raney of Los Angeles, wore a full length gown with a re-embroidered lace bodies in ivory and a lace appliqued skirt. Her mantilla veil fell below her waist over an illusion veil extending beyond the gown's train. A cameo broach belonging to her mother, was the bride's "something old." Kathleen carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley, stephanotis and Jack Frost roses.

Michele Eileen Raney, was her sister's maid of honor. Attendants were another sister, Nancy Elizabeth Raney, Katherine Dirickson, the groom's sister, Maureen Kickey, the bride's cousin and Patricia Gallagher.

Best man was the groom's brother, Richard E. Dirickson Jr. Aidan Raney Jr., the bride's brother; Michael McHale and Terence Orell seated the guests. Daniel Raney, young brother of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Katheleen made her debut at the Cardinal's Ball. She is a graduate of the University of Santa Clara with a B.A. in Social Sciences. She earned an elementary teaching credential from UCLA.

Philp, a graduate in economics from the University of Santa Clara earned an M.A. in economics from the University of California at Santa Barbara. He is a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Army.

Following a reception in the Wilshire Country Club, Los Angeles, the couple left for a honeymoon at the Balboa Club, Mazatlan, Mexico. They are now at home in Virginia.

Engagement party in New York

The engagement of Eileen Patricia McNellis and Richard Tompkins Klein, both of Carmel, was announced last month at a dinner given in New York City by his parents.

Eileen is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Patrick Hugh McNellis of Seattle, Wash. She is a graduate of Forest Ridge Convent in Seattle where she was affiliated with Delta Gamma Sorority. Eileen received her B.A. in Latin American Studies at Seattle University.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney J. Klein of New York City. He received his B.A. at Queen's College, N.Y. and his Master of Arts in theater at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. A former special service officer at Fort Ord, Richard has appeared at Carmel's Studio Theater in "White Lies," "Black Comedy," and "Cactus Flower," and will soon travel to Vietnam to complete his tour of duty.

Date for April wedding is set

April 25 will be the wedding date for Robin Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Carmel and Sally Vance of San Francisco.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vance. She has a sister, Gloria, and a brother Hobie. She graduated from the University of Arizona and is now a Pan American stewardess.

Robin is a graduate of Carmel High School and Occidental College, where he was associated with Sigma Alpha Epislon fraternity. He also attended the University of Oregon. He has two sisters Penny, a student at Fresno State College and Debbie, who works at the Carmel Valley Racquet Club.

After the wedding, which will take place in Tuscon, Ariz., the couple plan a ski trip to Zermatt, Switzerland.

Prize winning quartet at MPC

The prize-winning Prokofiev Quartet, a chamber music group composed of four young women from Moscow, will perform at Monterey Peninsula College Thursday, Mar. 5 at 8:30 p.m. in the MPC Little Theater.

Tickets for the recital, at $1.50 for general admission a nd $1 for students, are available at the college community services office afternoons and will be sold at the door.

The group was formed in 1956, when all four were students at the Conservatory of Music in Moscow and about to graduate. The musicians are Lina Guberman, violin; Ludmila Granova, violin; Galina Odinez, viola; and Kira Svetkova, cello. All are married and make their homes in Moscow, meeting daily for rehearsal – when not on tour – in a studio in the Composers Union Building.

When concertizing became a full-time occupation for the quartet, it won first prizes in the International Music Festival in 1957 and the Haydn Chamber Music Competition in Budapest in 1959.

Dr. Knoll is Council president

Dr. Samson B. Knoll, Dean of the Faculty, Monterey Institute of Foreign Study, has accepted the Presidency of the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula.

Dr. Knoll, in accepting the office, stated:

"I deeply regret that the change in the Presidency of the Council has become necessary due to the sudden illness of my predecessor, Mr. Bernard Van Horne. His leadership is missed by all of us. I shall try my best to follow his example and maintain the standard of excellence he provided."

"Genesis I" to feature new film making techniques

"Genesis I," a collection of student and independently made films, will be shown at Monterey Peninsula College Friday, March 6, and Saturday, March 7, at 7 and 9 p.m. both days in MPC's Lecture-Forum 103.

Follong close on the heels of the college's highly successful New Cinema Festival, Genesis I will feature films which have received awards and prizes at film festivals and contests.

The two-hour program of 15 experimental and documentary films showcases such "wild" techniques as color separation, solarization, negative and positive strobe and rapid-fire cutting. Also used are more conventional social documentary, dramatic and comedic styles of expression.

Tickets for each of the four performances, at $1.50 for general admission and $1 for students, will be available afternoons at the MPC community services office in the administration building. They will also be sold at the door on a "space available" basis.

"Genesis II," a second collection, will be screened April 3 and 4.

With no unfamiliar sybols to learn, it is possible to achieve speed on completion of the course that will satisfy civil service and other employement requirements, and prove valuable in note taking. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Esther Miller, 394-4741.

MPUSD needs Spanish teachers

A credentialled Spanish teacher is needed by the Division of Adult Education, Monterey Peninsula Unified School District, to teach conversational Spanish 2 mornings a week for a total of 5 hours weekly.

Interested persons should contact the Personnel Office, telephone 372-7111, for appointment and interview.

Tuition bill is proposed

A bill to allow student loans to be repaid to the state of California after the student leaves college and achieves a $10,000 annual earning capacity, has been introduced by Assemblyman John L. E. "Bud" Collier, R-Los Angeles.

The bill, which failed in an earlier, highly partisan legislature, would permit the state to sell the student notes to banks for immediate reimbursement, but the state would guarantee payment.

The 20-year notes would be payable in proportion to the graduate's earning power, and null and void if the student failed to attain a certain earning power as a result of his education.

Collier states that his plan is an alternative to pay-as-you-go tuition plans that have been advanced.

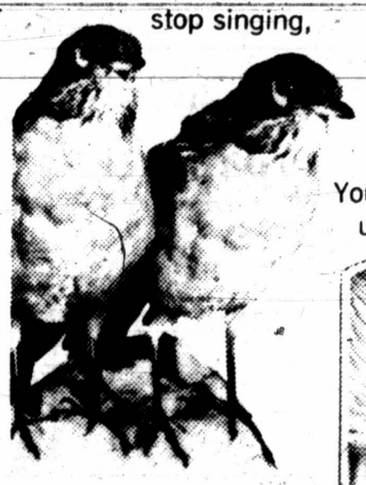
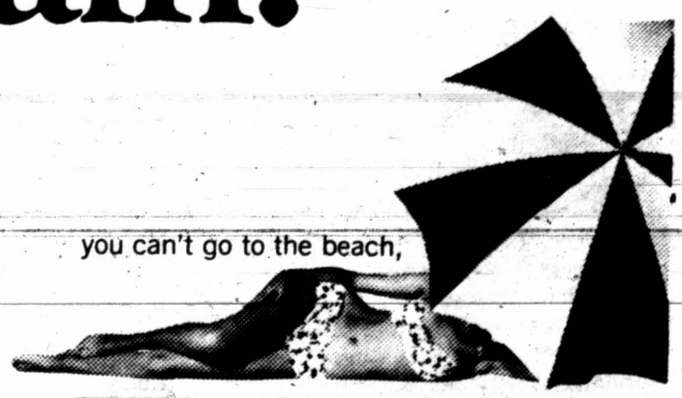
Winter's a pain.

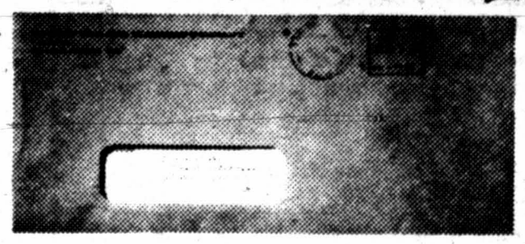
the birds stop singing,



you can't go to the beach,



You're cooped-up inside,



and your winter PG&E bills go up.

it gets dark earlier,

But look at the brighter side. Think of all the delicious hot meals, cozy warmth, television watching and other indoor comforts you're now enjoying. You're buying a lot more PG&E energy to make winter a lot less disagreeable. And spring's just around the corner. That means the temperature will soon go back up. And your PG&E bill will go back down again.

Robert Stanton calls for self supporting Symphony

The Monterey County Symphony is not self-supporting at present, but a special Fund could help make it so, is the belief of Robert Stanton, the Association's president.

In a recent statement of appreciation for the widening community support for the Symphony, Stanton called attention to the Capital Fund of this non-profit organization.

"Donations to this fund are tax-deductible" he explained. "They can be made in the name of the donor, or in the name of a deceased relative or friend. This type of donation is particularly appropriate when given in the memory of individuals who have loved music in their lifetime. However, it also may act as a statement by the donor of his own personal preference. This is often done in memorial gifts to medical or charitable foundations. This type of gift is generally replacing such transitory memorials as floral gifts."

Stanton further explained that the Symphony's Capital Fund would not be used for day-to-day operating expenses. The object is to maintain the Fund for long-range investment, using only the accruing interest. At present the Fund is small, but if it can be built up through memorials and other donations, it could then be invested and reinvested in the same manner as other well-known Foundations Funds, thus producing a self-sufficient financial base.

Since the Symphony is a community cultural endeavor, admission prices have been kept as low as possible. Ticket revenues supply only one-third of the Symphony's operating costs. So a number of yearly fund raising campaigns are required to help make up the deficits.

For example, the successful Oriental Art Show in January, sponsored by the Peninsula Chapter of the Symphony Guild, was a one- time event that brought in additional and welcome funds.

All memorials and contributors are listed in the Symphony's concert programs, and all contributions are tax-deductible when made payable to the Monterey County Symphony Association.

Contributors should send checks to P.O. Box 3851, in Carmel, or contact Robert Stanton directly for further information regarding memorials, bequests or other donations to the Symphony's Capital Fund.

Delta Gammas plan luncheon

A luncheon at the Beach and Tennis Club is planned by the Monterey Peninsula Alumnae Association of Delta Gamma on Mar. 7 to celebrate Founders Day.

Haydn's "Creation" performance at Naval School

"The Creation," one of Franz Joseph Haydn's powerful oratorios, will be performed by the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society and the Monterey County Symphony at the Naval Postgraduate School on Palm Sunday, Mar. 22. The public is invited to attend the 3 p.m. performance in King Hall.

This will be the fifth year that the school's Protestant Women's Chapel Guild has sponsored an Easter season musical program.

Haymo Taeuber, renowned conductor of the Monterey Symphony Orchestra and 90-voice choral group, will direct for the second year in a row.

Soprano Norma Jean Hodges will be one of the three guest soloists. A Carmel resident, this will be the third time she has sung before a King Hall audience.

The tenor soloist, James Schwabacher, has appeared in the Carmel Bach Festival, and has been praised as the leading oratorio soloist in the country.

The bass soloist, James Tippey, made his solo debut at the age of 19.

Much of "The Creation" is based on John Milton's classic poem, "Paradise Lost." Before Haydn put the literature to music, he is quoted as saying, "I want to write a work which will give permanent fame to my name in the world." It appears that he achieved his goal.

"The Creation" was first performed in Vienna in 1880, and Haydn, alo with Mozart and Beethove is considered a father of th classical school of music.

Tickets are on sale for $ at Abinante's Music Store a 425 Alvarado St. i Monterey, McConnell' Book and Gift Shop at 16 Webster St. in Monterey and at the Naval Postgraduate School's Protestant Chaplain's Office in Herrmann Hal (646-2241).

HE MAY HAVE STARTED THE CIVIL WAR – Although he existed only in Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Simon Legree became the most hated slave symbol in the South. Shown above in the part is Herbert Lom as he subdues the pretty black slave girl Cassy, played by Olive Moorefield, in the Cinemascope color film playing at Carmel's Village Theatre. The new movie version of the classic dramatically portrays the brutal as well as the kind treatment of slaves in early nineteenth century America.

Movie Reviews

The Magic Christian – Comedian Peter Sellers, Beatle Ringo Starr and sex symbol Raquel Welch in a mod comedy about a multi-millionaire, his adopted son and a pirestess for 100 girl galley slave rowers – topless. At the Golden Bough.

The Computer Wore Tennis Shoes – Typical clean-cut, Walt Disney, outrageous premise, but funny. Kurt Russell is a college student shockced by a computer, which lets him absorb all the machine's knowledge. Take it from there. At the Valley Cinema.

Paint Your Wagon – A lusty, brawling, sprawling musical set in a mining camp during the California Gold Rush days. Lee Marvin and Clint Eastwood share their gold claim and a wife, Jean Seberg, in perfect amity. Great surprise ending. At Cinema 70 in Del Monte Shopping Center.

The Sterile Cuckoo – Liza Minnelli, daughter of the late Judy Garland, in a supercharged portrayal of a zany, vulnerable, motherless girl in a story that moves from young love to an emphasis on sexual relationship. At the Regency.

The Only Game In Town – Warren Beatty improves with every picture. He is one of the top professionals in the field, and he proves it here as an inept gambler and a mediocre piano player. Elizabeth Taylor is in it to. At the State.

Angel, Angel, Down We Go - Jenifer Jones, Roddy McDowall, singer Lou Rawls and the man who married Richard Burton's ex-wife in a story about hippie musicians (why are they always cast as bad guys?). At the Marina Automovie.

The Bridge at Ramagens – George Segal and Robert Baughn star in this true account of the German's failure to blow up the Rhine River bridge, allowing the Americans a foothold across the last barrier to the German heartland. At the Grove.

On Her Majesty's Secret Service – This is the sixth James Bond movie, and this time features George Lazenby as 007. Diana Rigg is his latest flame, and this time he marries her, but briefly. Ernst Blofeld is the arch villian. At the Grove.

The Molly Maguirees – Strong drama in this powerful film about a group of miners who set off a terrorist campaign in the Pennsylvania mines during the 1870s. This is a great picture with an outstanding cast and well worth the seeing. At the Steinbeck.

"The Crucible," a story of witchcraft and hysteria in 17th century Salem is playing to packed houses Friday through Sunday nights at the Circle.

As John Proctor, an innocent victim of the witch trials observes, "little crazy children are janglin' the keys of the kingdom."

Stirring performances are given by each member of the large cast. You'll need reservations for this one. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m on Friday and Sat., and 7:30 on Sunday. Phone 624-2669.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

Fancy French Fare

"Fancy meeting you here instead of the Carmel Post Office!" was a familiar greeting in the ornate lobby at the Fairmont.

Last Friday about 30 members from l'Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula motored to San Francisco for a 3-hour luncheon in honor of the President of France and Madame Pompidou.

It was truly a gala occasion despite the long line of more than 1000 well-groomed guests equeezed together in the narrow corridor leading to the "basement ballroom." You're Party Plans reporter longed for Carmel's ocean-fresh air as claustrophobia crept upon her.

Security guards everywhere—so much so that Madame Party Plans was afraid to reach for pen & paper in order to give you the following facts. Memory sometimes serves. Also the tricolor menu brought back for the Pine Cone....

(Exclusive!)

Les Crevettes en Coquille Ravigote
Christian Brothers Pinot-Chardonnay
Celeris et Olives
La Roulade de Chapon Sauce Madere
Christian Brothers Cabernet-Souvignon
Les Tomates Crillees
Les Petits Pois au Jambon
La Tarte Bavaroise aux Fraises
Cafe

Should you plan to emulate for eight, rather than 1000, M.P. dinner guests, we're giving an instantaneous translation. Le President's speech was interpreted this way with tiny ear plugs at each table...not ours..l'Alliance in the M.P. area is supposed to know by ear.

A few personal observations: Have you thought of placing dessert "a table" (on same) way before guests have even been asked to be seated? We stared at the Tarte for 3 hours. After that elapse it had begun to thaw. Fine hotel technique.

To be fair, this method meant less moving around of waiters. We suspected our "garcon" was an F.B.I. the way our every gesture was observed. So now we'll give you a recipe for les crevettes, straight out of "The Pleasures of Cooking with Wine" (meaning California kind). There's an appropriate connection later. Sorry the Fairmont chefs were not available for consultation.

Les Crevettes etc.
Tiny Chrimp in Ravigote

Two cups cooked or canned tiny shrimp; 1 cup dry white wine; 2 hard-cooked eggs, yolks and whites separated; 1 T. catsup; 1 T. well-drained sweet pickle relish; 1 T chopped parsley; 1 t. lemon juice about 1/2 cup mayonnaise; salt and paprika to taste.

Combine shrimp and wine in bowl and marinate in refrigerator 2 hours, stirring now and then. Sieve egg yolks and whites separately. Drain shrimp and combine with rest of items. Cover and chill. Serve in glass scallop shells. Keep some of the eggs with which to sprinkle the tops and dust with paprika. Serves 6. Lacking the sea shells, use lettuce-lined sherbet or champagne glasses. These are already in place when guests are seated. Another time saver.

La Roulade consisted of strips of capon rolled around a bread and pate dressing and glazed with a delicious sauce elevated with Madiera wine. Verdant petit pois combined with cubed ham, tomato halves grilled with Parmesan cheese and a large button mushroom; a hard French roll at each place. Hot bread is not served in Europe..not good for the digestion. Also this too is practical. In spite of this delightful luncheon we didn't gain weight.

Due to the Franch president and his entourage there was much applauding and rising. Hie Excellency Georges Ponpidou's address was warmly received as were the welcoming remarks of Mayor Alioto and Governor Reagan.

John Busterud, president of the Commonwealth Club of California, explained why California wines were served instead of Franch wines. He said that only 50 miles away from San Francisco The Christian Brothers Teaching Order was founded nearly three centuries ago by the French nobleman Jean Baptiste de La Salle. It was he who introduced the mystique of French wine making by importing French grapes to our now thriving California wine industry.

As a happy ending to a happy occasion, we're giving another version of a lovely French dessert.

Tarte Tatin
(Upside-down Apple Tart)

Use a large round glass baking dish about 2 in. deep. Butter inside generously and cover bottom with 1/4 in. layer of sugar. On this arrange a layer of overlapping slices of tart peeled and cored apples. Fill dish with more sliced apples, sprinkled with sugar and dotted lavishly with butter. Cover dish with a circle of flaky pie pastry. Bake the tart in a 375 F. oven for 30 min. It is ready when the apples are golden and the sugar begins to caramelize. Then loosen the crust all the way around, put a heated platter upside down over the baking dish turning it over. Serve the tarte Tatin hot, with a bowl of chilled whipped cream. This is not for a banquet of 1,000 but excellent for a small intimate dinner.

Especially for our feminie readers, Madame Pompidou, who is blonde, tall, svelte and very chic, was dressed for the occasion by Chanel. That's what President Pompidou replied during the brief question and answer period.

Dining Out at the.... Hearthstone

....with Virjy Sheplley

The headwaiter Danny Concepcion at Mark Thomas' Carmel Hearthstone knows exactly what is the most continously popular choice at his domain.

It was that connoisseur "Along the Boulevards" Lucius Beebe who wrote the following in Gourmet Magazine: "The best mutton chops in my experience can be had at Mark Thomas' Hearthstone in Carmel." Danny always supervised and served the famous gourmet's "mutton" chops.

But today these are called lamb loin chops, trip cut, sec ... . broiled right in front of you.

Waiting the 20 or so minutes is preceded by French Onion Soup with Parmesan Croutons, a tossed green salad with a thick creamy Roquefort Cheese Dressing. We prefer, as we've mentioned before, to enjoy our salad with and not before the main dish. We also dislike a commercialized type of bottled "bleu" dressing. Real imported roquefort crumbled slightly with a light oil and vinegar French dressing is far more to our pleasure. But the tender green crips hearts of romaine are chilled and delightful.

To go on with Mr. Beebe's favorite chops . . these may be broiled absolutely the way you prefer. Properly grilled they can be almost "burned" on the outside with the sweet meat still pink and juicy inside. Each should season his own individually at the table with salt and pepper grinders. Mint jelly and piping hot baked potoates turn the meal into an adventure a la Hearthstone.

Mr. Beebe went on to say that "the porterhouse at the Hearthstone is of a dimension and succulence not to be credited until firsthand experience authenticates its fame."

Today the same quality of perfectly aged beef is described on the bill of fare as "Flaming Porterhouse Steak, for Two" . . . the king of steaks having three types of steak in one.

Hidden flavor and tenderness of Tenderloin, the perfection of finest New York Steak, and body and taste of the Sirloin. Broiled to please the palate of the most discriminating epicurean." Thelatter should be prepared for the $15 tag, plus drinks, tip ad tax.

There are less expensive items fortunately. Very special are the spareribs, not barbecued but broiled as the pioneers of our western frontiers enjoyed them, retaining all the aroma and spirit of the campfire.

The dining room is spacious and discretely table-lighted with small lamps. The aroma from the huge open grill is second only to the actual appetite appeasement.

Lunch is served daily excepting Wednesdays and Sundays. On the latter there is a Brunch from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. This is not a buffet. Entrees include fruit, coffee, juices and English Toasted Muffins. An inspired accompaniment is a hot fresh artichoke with melted butter.

Our favorite was described to us by Danny who has been with Mr. Thomas for 20 years.

Beef Stroganoff with Rice

Two lbs. of sirloin steak cut into strips; 2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms; 1 chopped onion; ½ cup butter; 3 beef bouillon cubes; 1 cup boiling water or 1 can condensed bouillon, diluted to taste; salt and pepper; sour cream; rice. (Serves 4).

Saute meat strips quickly in butter; add some flour with rest of items excepting sour cream and rice. Cook gently, covered, until fork tender. Add sour cream at last moment and serve over fluffy hot rice. Sometimes tomato paste is added but we prefer the simple recipe above.

Lunch has somewhat of a dainty tea-room atmosphere in the Cricket Room but as it is frequented by Carmel's affluent "little old ladies" it is always full. Chicken Salad (quite bland . . . due to salt-free diets no doubt) and Cottage Cheese with Fruit for weight watchers are the most in demand. The daily specials lack excitement although we'll admit that Friday's Crab Newburg and Saturday's Lamb Curry show some imagination.

Nigh time is what makes this rendezvous click. It is then well-credited men from out-of-town flock there for those superb steaks.

And thanks to Senor Concepcion for his courteous assistance in making this report so agreeable.

A VENETIAN GONDOLIER
From: Thayer Soule's "Venice & The Italian Lakes"

'Venice' next in Explorama film series

Thayer Soule, well known travel and adventure film producer, will appear in person at 8:15 p.m. Friday, March 6, at the Sunset Auditorium in Carmel to narrate his award winning 2-hour color travel and adventure film, "Venice and the Italian Lakes."

The program is part of the current Explorama Series which is sponsored by the Explorers Club of San Francisco.

Thayer Soule is a native of Rochester, New York and has been producing travel and adventure films since he graduated from Harvard University in 1939. For some 20 years he was production assistant to Burton Holmes, the man who coined the word "travelogue."

In World War II, Lt. Col. Soule was in charge of all Marine Corps photography in the South Pacific Area. He landed at Guadalcanal and later headed another photography unit at Iwo Jima where he won the Bronze Star.

His journeys through the years have taken him more than a million miles and into 70 different countries. He spent six months on location in Italy during the production of "Venice and the Italian Lakes." The film is primarily a human interest study of the people who live in Venice today.

Additional highlights include the City of Milan, the Italian Alps and the beautiful Italian Lakes.

Reserved seat tickets are available in advance from all Macy's stores, and Ticketron outlets and Abinante Music Store in Monterey.

Obituaries

Ellen Jane Down, a mathematics teacher at Carmel High School since 1942, died Feb. 21 at her home in Pacific Grove.

A native of Oakland and graduate of UC, Mrs. Down had been a teacher for 37 years, the last 28 of which were at Carmel High School.

Contributions may be made to a state scholarship fund in her memory. The organization may be reached through Carmel High School.

Mrs. Gladys, M. Snider of Hacienda Carmel died recently in a local convalescent hospital following a lengthly illness.

Mrs. Snider was born in San Francisco on Nov. 23, 1897. She had been a resident of the area since 1931.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Nadine S. Winston of San Rafael and five grandchildren.

Samuel ("Pop") Wood, a Carmel resident for the past 30 years, died recently in a local convalescent hospital after a period of failing health. He was 97.

A native of Union Grove, Iowa, he and his wife Nora Mae, who died in 1963, lived on the corner of Guadalupe and 3rd in one of the two homes he had designed and built there.

He preached his first sermon as a youth of 15 and had been Pastor of churches in Spokane, Wash., Independence, Mo., Fresno and Monterey.

He was widely traveled and was considered an authority on political science and theology.

Among his survivors are his daughter, Mrs. Frank (Eve) Bell of Carmel and son, Thomas Wood of Carmel.

Contribution in memory of Mr. Wood may be made to the Carmel Convalescent Hospital, Highway 1, Carmel.

Letters to the editor

Washington's Birthday

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone,
P.O. Box G-1,
Carmel, California

For whatever motive prompted you to publish the full page article on George Washington, written by C. Austin DeCamp, I thank you.

All too seldom are we given the opportunity today to review and rethink our great debt to the men who so truly guided the early activities of our Country.

I read this thoughtful article last Friday and reread it more carefully later. Those of your readers who take the time to 'think' their way thru it will be better citizens for the effort.

A salute to your editorial judgement and a vote of deep appreciation to Col. DeCamp. A salute to your editorial judgement and a vote of deep appreciation to Col. DeCamp.

And, another thank you for the 'taste' of the "Pine Cones" of yesteryears.

Cordially yours,
L. J. Fletcher

The Editor
Carmel Pine Cone
Carmel, Calif.

Dear Sir,

I wish to commend you for your patriotic position in connection with Washington's birthday. You have stood against the trend of sneering at patriotism and of down-grading our country. Power to you.

Sincerely,
George Thorngate

Sewer Bonds

Carmel had a lot more charm in 1939, when it became known as the Little City in the Forest, than it has today.

At that time the Carmel Sanitary District planned and built a sewage treatment plant that could treat over a million gallons per day, and with current improvements has met all prescribed sanitary standards for the last 30 years.

By 1967 population growth and the charm of the Carmel area had attracted so many people, the need for a greater capacity plant was recognized and a master plan was formulated to treat three to four million gallons of sewage per day (the estimated need through 1985)

Did you know that the Carmel plant collects and treats the sewage from the following, Carmel River basin areas, and subdivisions; Carmel Meadows, Carmel High School, Carmel Point, Carmel Knolls, Carmel Woods, Carmel Rancho, Hatton Fields, Carmel Views No. 1; Mission Fields, Hacienda Carmel, High Meadows, Lower Carmel Hills, Rio Way Tract, and others? We must realize that if our Sanitary District hadn't followed a regional system, we would literally be floating in septic tanks.

Certain people in our community are attempting to defeat the $1,500,00 bond issue to rebuild our treatment plant by spreading statements to the effect that Pebble Beach sewage is to be treated at the expense of the taxpayers of Carmel Sanitary District; that the 600-foot outfall would not be needed if Pebble Beach's sewage was not treated; that the Carmel Sanitary District Board is satisfied with only primary treatment.

Every one of the above all allegations is untrue. Here are the facts!

1. The Carmel Sanitary District plant has to be replaced and updated now to enable treatment of present and anticipated sewage loads even without the addition of the Pebble Beach sewage.

2. The Pebble Beach Sanitary District is paying one-third of the cost of the new plant and one-thrid of operating expenses.

3. It will be 15 years before the present and estimated growth of Pebble Beach will enerate one million gallons of sewage of the projected three to four million gallons planned treatment plant.

4. The Water Quality Control Board has directed the Sanitary District to proceed immediately with the construction of the proposed 600-foot outfall and completion by September 1, 1970.

5. There is no other financially feasible way at the moment to dispose of treated sewage than through the proposed outfall line. The State, through the Porter-Cologne Act, could assess our Sanitary District taxpayers $6,000 per day – yes, six thousand – if unsatisfactorily treated effluent is dumped into the ocean.

6. The CArmel Sanitary Board has planned the treatment plant so that the various units are a step toward secondary treatment.

7. If the Federal government supplies the one million plus of matching funds which can reasonably be expected, full secondary treatment is possible.

8. The Carmel Citizens Committee has urged full secondary treatment. As technical advancements make it feasibily posiible, our objective is complete reclamation of water. (Emphasis by Pine Cone)

9. The Carmel Sanitary District is the only District on the Monterey Peninsula that has taken positive steps to provide a regional sewage disposal service.

10. On March 24, let us take the positive action to remove the "Cease and Desist" order off our backs by voting "YES" for the bond issue!

Bernard A. Anderson
Carmel

To the editor:

When President Nixon asked Congress last fall for approximately $200 million in the 1970 Public Works Appropriations bill for grants to states for water pollution abatement facilities, Congress immediately raised it to $800 million.

That is a good indication of the increasing public interest in this important effort to improve our environment, which is now sweeping the nation.

Carmel bids fair to profit from this movement in the campaign of its Sanitary District to pass a $1.5 million bond issue to update its present sewage treatment plant. Everyone agrees that this is a badly needed. Many people think that $1.5 million is not enough to do a good job but if the Federal Government will contribute another million or so, it will certainly be enough to make a good start and it is a question now of backing the requested bond issue or slipping back to a dangerous situation.

How can anyone decide to vote against the bond issue, when the alternative is fairly understood? If no bonds are approved, we shall have to go on a -ay-as-you-go basis. This means that the present tax rate of 41 cents will probably go up as much as $1.00. If the bonds are issued, it will only go up to 53 cents.

A vote against the bond issue on March 24 is a vote in favor of returning to the Chick Sale era. This is one aspect of our modern civilization where progress can only be in one direction.

Sincerely,
C. Edward Graves

Apartment Complex

Monterey County Planning Commission
240 Church Street
Salinas, California 93901

Gentlemen,

We understand the Arbor Development Company and the land owner (both non-residents of this area) are applying for permission to construct an apartment complex of some 52 units (Casas de Carmel) on a comparatively small piece of land adjacent to the Middle School in lower Carmel Valley.

We earnestly recommend denial of any such application. The proposed density is that of a city rather than the present one acre minimum of Carmel Valley. It violates existing zoning. This is the third proposed high density development in this general area, all three of which in our opinion will not conform to present zoning and are undesirable.

Proposals that increase the population density of the Carmel Valley and the Monterey Peninsula should be viewed askance. We are convinced they are basically bad and will in the long run work to the disadvantage of this community, which is already experiencing trouble due to inadeauate sewage disposal, polluted beaches, and an imminent water crisis. Nowadays additional developments, business or residential, seldom pay their way tax-wise. They are apt to cost local government more than they contribute. This area can support and propertly take care of only a definite number of people and still retain its inherent beauty and charm. Let the others go elsewhere.

The time is upon us to update our plans for the future, the Peninsula Area Master Plan, the Carmel Valley Plan and the Plans of the Peninsula Cities because of the immediacy of the problems due to more people, general damage to the environment; loss of vegetation and trees; pollution of air, soil and water; waste disposal; water shortage; traffic and transportation problems.

In particular we urge revision of the population standards in the lower Carmel Valley in the light of the foregoing before any developments such as this are approved.

Hopefully,
C.W. Fisher,
President

cc. Carmel Planning Commission, County Supervisors
CVPOA

Editor's Note – We are publishing the above letter because we feel it is the interest of the general public to be aware of developments which may be detrimental to the area. The Pine Cone heartily concurs with the content of this letter from the Carmel Citizens Committee.

Plan

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone:

Recently a large financial institution ran full page ads in major Calif. newspapers asking Governor Reagan to bring an end to such acts of lowlessness as the burning of the bank as Isle-Vista.

I have a plan, that if adopted by all concerned, might help to end such acts.

Pass a law requiring that human values be considered as important as business profit values. Such a law could teeth to the following proposals:

Lower interest rates from their present usurious levels to realistic levels so that poor people who have to live in debt most of their lives could see some light at the "end of the tunnel."

Discontinue our present standard practice of frightening our people into periodically engaging in business-boosting ventures profitable for a few but economically disastrous to others. Examples are, the space program, the proposed utterly useless anti-ballistic missile project, and the criminally misrepresented and tragic Vietnam war.

Take the money ordinarily wasted on venture such as those above, and use it instead to build housing for our poorly housed, to provide food and meaningful employment for our poor, and to otherwise demonstrate to our "have-nots" that we think as much of them as we do of the almight dollar and that they have a rightful place in our society.

Certainly we could pass laws that would outlaw everything from breathing in public to sex in private homes, but rather than trying to keep a bathtub from overflowing by packing mud around its edges, would it be simpler to just pull the plug or shutt off the water?

M.J. Vercoe

Special training in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is best for people who are likely to encounter emergencies involving breathing problems. The Central Mission Trails Heart Association has useful literature on the subject.

CUSD Board 'plays' with new Tularcitos educational gear

Red, yellow, blue and green interlocking blocks, wooden puzzles and portable playground equipment amused and informed Board members of the Carmel Unified School District at their meeting last Thursday.

Other educational items included block like desk-chairs that could be used as work tables or chairs by the children, and a color wheel clock for teaching kindergateners to tell time.

The materials were examples of the sort of learning equipment in use by kindergarten and first grade pupils at Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley.

Miss Sallie Witter, kindergarten teacher at the school, and Mrs. Evelyn Dangaard, first grade teacher, were on hand to describe the various items and discuss hwo they provice maximum opportunities for self directed learning and exploration by the children.

Superintendent Harris Taylor reported that a list of desired aims for kindergarten children had been developed using materials from other programs. He said that materials were being selected which would enable the teachers at Tularcitos to reach their goals. If a method proves useful at Tularcitos, Taylor and the staff plan to make it available to the rest of the district.

"Through the use of one unit, we hope to upgrade the school system," he said. "It is not just the purchase of material. There is also a well defined plan. These materials have meaning, particularly in intellectual development areas."

Miss Witter pointed out that many children in the Tularcitos program were gaining greater results than students of their age group had previously achieved. Some pupils had completed part of the first grade arithmetic program. It was her wish that the new techniques be publicized and she suggested that parents come and spend a day at the school observing their children and trying out their learning equipment themselves.

Supt. Taylor mentioned also that a play yard and outdoor stage for dramatic presentations will soon be built at Tularcitos. Preliminary sketches were presented to the board by Fred Keeble of the Keeble and Rhonda architectural firm.

Bob Skene leads West Coast stars at PB on Sunday

Bob Skene, America's only active 10 goal polo player, will lead a team of West Coast stars against the current British Empire team on Sunday, Mar. 8 at Pebble Beach.

Skene, who played in the last international match in the old Hotel Del Monte in 1939, as a member of the English Squad, will ride with Peter Vought, Aspen, Colorado, John Wallop, Big Horn, Wyoming, and Victor Graber of Oakland and Santa Barbara.

Riding for the English will be the Marquis of Waterford, his brother, Lord PAtrick Beresford, Lord Edmund Fermoy and Nigel Corbally-Stourton.

Sunday's match marks the second time within a year that Skene has displayed his renowned talents at Collins Field, adjacent to the 17-Mile Drive.

The match is open to the public and begins at 2:00 p.m.

Report From RLS

by Jim Coonan

Rain or shine, the Robert Louis Stevenson School will be the place to be on Saturday, Mar. 7, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. if you are in the market for home made patch work quilts, pillows and handmade rugs.

Under the leadershp of Mrs. Thomson Hudson, the mothers of teh school students have been workg all year on their various projects. Among these are Mrs. Donna Jeffers and Mrs. Edwin Lee who have been gathering books; Mrs. Joseph W. Earnshaw is in charge of the auction; Mrs. John Love is collecting raffle tickets.

The boutique is the work of Mrs. Clarence Cleary. Fresh produce will be on sale under the direction of Mrs. Myron Etienne of Salinas. White elephants are being made bright and shiny by Mrs. Herman Kasavan and Mrs. Arthur Hately.

Other departments are the garden of which Mrs. Amy Cole is chairman; fresh homemade candy, Mrs. Wesley Hazlett; homemade bakery goods, Mrs. Philip Coniglio; pantry shelf, Mrs. Bertrand d'Avenas and art, Mrs. Arthur Ehrlich.

Mrs. Frank Bottero, head of the SABL School will also have a booth.

No admission or gate charge to Del Monte Properties will be charged for this special event.

The Robert Louis Stevenson Carnival and Bazar is being held this coming weekend.

The idea behind the event is to raise money for the "scholarship fund" at R.L.S.

Two seniors, Scott Bullen and Jim Scheffler are running the Carnival and Mrs. Thomson Hudson, head of the Mother's Club is in charge of the Bazar.

The Bazaar will consist of 15 booths, including a popular teacher "dumk."

The boths will be set up outside, between the R.L.S. library and Reid Hall, the cafeteria.

Mrs. Hudson is planning, in addition to her "bargain basement" sales, a raffle with the grande prize being a trip to Europe.

In case of rain the booths will be reinstated at the gym. If the weather is not as rainy as it was the past weekend the Carnival and Bazaar should make a good profit and have a large attendance.

Two named to Monterey Bay Girl Scouts

Joe Rice and Mrs. Fulton Freeman – both of Carmel – were elected to the Board of Directors of the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council at its annual meeting, Feb. 24.

Rice is the first vice president of the Council. He has served as a member of the nominating and finance committees in the past and is also active in community affairs. He is a board member of Community Chest, treasurer of Handicapped Activities, Unlimited, National Officer of American Association of Banking, Carmel Kiwanis Club, Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite, and Elks Club.

Rice is the assistant manager of the Bank of America in Carmel.

Mrs. Fulton Freeman is a member-at-large on the Board of Directors of the Council. As the wife of a U.S. Foreign Service Officer, she has been active in Scouting throughout the world. She is presently working with the Girl Scouts in their efforts to extend membership to girls between the ages of 7 and 17.

As board members, both Mice and Mrs. Freeman are helping more than 7,600 girls in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz Counties become responsible citizens through Awareness and Action in their communities.

Christmas Island in the Pacific was discovered on the evening of Dec. 24, 1777, by the English explorer, Capt. James Cook.

Carmel Music Society sets concert program for 1971

The Board of Directors of the Carmel Music Society held its first meeting of the year on Feb. 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann in Carmel.

Final arrangements were made for next season's program of concerts. The Board also discussed arrangements for the annual meeting scheduled for May 22.

This has been a practice of the Music Society for a number of years and is one of the highlights of the season. It is also a wonderful opportunity for the young aritst to appear on the concert stage. The artist for this year as not as yet been chosen.

The next regularly scheduled concert of the Music Society will be Mar. 19 at which time the widely acclaimed pianist, William Masselos, will be presented.

Since his debut at 18, at New York's Town Hall Masselos has been consistently before the public on the two Americas and in Europe.

Some individual tickets are still available on a first-come, first-served basis. Tickets may be had by calling the office, 624-2085, or by writing to the Society, P.O. Box 1144, Carmel.

Several new members have been welcomed to the Board in the past few months. They are: Mrs. June Hass, Mrs. Rosario Mazzeo and Dr. Samson Knoll, all of Carmel Highlands, and Mrs. David Hagemeyer, Gilbert Neill and Mrs. Bernard Szold, of Carmel.

SCRAMP seeks Race Queen

The Race Queen for the 1970 Trans American Sedan Championship opener at the Laguna Seca Raceway Apr. 18 & 19 will be a locally-cultivated beauty.

The directors of the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula (SCRAMP) announced today that they are seeking a young lady who will represent the vevre, dash and color of this premier international automobile racing fixture.

She must be a resident of Monterey County, available for frequent interviews with the press, radio, television and auto racing groups. She must therefore be of single status and over 21.

Interested girls should phone the SCRAMP office in Monterey, 373-1811, as soon as possible for an interview. The deadline for applicants is Mar. 16.

Dear customer,

On March 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Francis and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Arnold will own and operate the Grocery Section of the Carmel Drive In.

The Zoellins will continue to operate the Beverage (liquor) department.

We know of their experience, capabilities and personalities; and feel confident that you will find this even a better place to shop. They will continue the present type of operation, plus plans for remodeling improvements.

The Zoellins wish to thank all of you who have patronized our store; many from the first day of business, Jan. 1, 1948.

Sincerely yours,

J. R. (Dick) and Evelyn Zoellin

The Music Scene

by Rachel Morton

Monterey Symphony

The Monterey Peninsula Concert Association presented Delcina Stevenson, soprano, as its fourth attraction of the series in the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium Thursday night.

Jean Barr was the accompanist, taking the place of the programmed Renee Haraty, as announced from the stage.

(Regretfully, there were no program notes, either about the artist or the music.)

After hearing Miss Stevenson's beautiful singing in the Carmel Bach Festival two years ago, her singing Thursday night was disappointing. Only in two arias and two encores did one glimpse the gorgeous voice that one remembered. Her singing of "Depuis Le Jour," from the opera Louise by Charpentier, was very fine as was the aria, "Addio e senza rancor" from La Boheme by Puccini sung as an encore.

In these numbers she warmed to her task and her voice took on color and meaning. In the two encores "Summertime," from Porgy and Bess, and the spiritual "Bye and Bye," she really came into her own. They were sung with intimacy and fondness, born of her people, and they were warmly received by the audience.

In the three Handel songs which opened the program, only the "Care Salve" made an impression. Here there was quality in the tone and a beautiful legato line. The "Alleluia" by Vivaldi showed coloratura flexibility, reminiscent of her singing in the Bach Festival, and "Die Forelle," by Schubert was charmingly sung.

It was in the Lieder singing that Miss Stevenson fell short. The thin, colorless vocalism in such great songs of depth as "NAcht und Traume," "Die Junge Nonne," by Schubert and "Anakereon's Grab," by Hugo Wolf depicted nothing of the intense drama of the words or music.

Where was the storm in "Die Junge Nonne," or the tragedy of her love? ANd where the profound introspection on viewing Anakreon's grave? All were sung with monotonous samesness, and with no deep understanding.

There was, however, a bit of sparkle in "Elfenlied" by Wolf. (Miss Stevenson is endowed with an ingratiating personality.)

"Concert Aria, Chi-io mi scardi di te," by Mozart showed some dramatic potential in the singer when she allowed her full voice to emerge in the upper register, and the ending was brilliant. Of the five Greek Folk Songs by Ravel, only one was impressive, "Yonder by the Church."

Perhaps if one could have understood the words there would have been more enjoyement in the songs. Seven Songs in a Song Cycle called, "Nursery Songs," by Moussorgsky were animated conversation pieces set to music. Only the "Evening Prayer" was impressive. (The rest should be reserved for the nursery!) Miss Barr was a sympathetic accompanist.

Delcina Stevenson

The audience at Sunset Auditorium Tuesday night, Feb. 24, was given a rare musical treat when the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra with Haymo Taeuber directing, and with Mari Tsumura, violinist, gave an outstandingly fine program.

The sensation of the evening was the extraordinary virtuosity of the young Japanese violinist who played the Violin Concerto in D minor by Sibelius. Born in Japan, where she began her studies at the age of four, she came to the United States in 1965 and won the Merriweather Post contest. Since then she has won acclaim in America and Canada.

One of her teachers was Efrem Zimbalist, the noted violinist. This slip of a girl in her long white dress with belt and border of pink, seemed like a child upon entrance. (She is actually 22 years old.)

But there was nothing childlike about her playing.

With the first long drawing of the bow upon the strings, one knew that here was a rare talent. From then on her playing amazed and thrilled the listener. The protechnics of her technical skill gleamed and glistened. With the robust tone of a man she disported herself in fabulous runs, double stoppings and trills with fingers that bit into the strings.

But it was in the Adagio that the rich, voluptuous quality of her tone brought out the deep melancholy of the music and revealed her keen sensitivity and great artistry. (I predict a great future for Mari Tsumura.)

Her playing and Taeuber's powerful direction inspired the orchestra players to their finest effort and a memorable performance was given.

After intermission the program continued in musical splendor with a magnificent performance of Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony in E minor. The loneliness of theheart of Tschaikowsky was keenly felt in the opening music of the Andante. The sprightly Allegro, in strongly pulsed rhythm, was played with zest. Then came the hauntingly beautiful melody of the Andante Cantabile introduced by the French horn, a melody threaded throughout the Symphony. There was a thunderous climax and then a quiet return to the main theme – a sort of quite, peaceful resignation. The charming Valse, with nice syncopation and airy music, was delightfully played.

Full of pride and triumph was the grand Finale. It was noble music, overwhelming music and it was given an overwhelming performance by the orchestra, which brought forth the conductor for many recalls and a standing ovation.

To diversify theprogram, and to keep us abreast of modern works, Taeuber selected for an opening number "Concertante," Music for Orchestra, by Boris Blacher. From the program notes (and how grateful we are for these program ntoes,) we learned that Blacher was born of Russian Baltic parents in China.

He went to Berlin in 1922 and became a composer and in 1956 he came to the United States as composer-in-residence at Tanglewood.

His 12-tone technique and the rhythmic innovation of Stravinsky were wildly evident in the music.

However, it was far more palatable than much ultra modern music and the exciting performance it received from the orchestra under Taeuber's compellling control brought about good response from the audience.

Consumer Power

By Yvonne Earnst

The refund bulletins, described in a recent issue, are filled with details of the many refund offers and premium offers currently offered to consumers by advertisers.

For example, Post Cereals will send you 50 cents for four boxtops from any of their four most popular cereals. For a New Bisquick boxtop plus a Vermont Maid Syrup label, you can receive 50 cents. Another 50 cents is yours for two different Bernstein's Salad Dressing neckbands.

Libby's, which just had a tremendous refund campaign ending Dec. 31, launched another right on its heels. They will send $1 for seven different labels from one group of products, and $2 for including five more labels from another group. Both groups cover their most popular sellers. Details on this campaign were announced in the Sunday Newspaper "magazine" sections and with store forms, but all the details are also available in the refund bulletins.

It would be impossible to read enough magazines and newspapers or find enough store forms on your own to take advantage of all these offers. This function of gathering all the refund information together is adequately performed by the refund bulletins. A subscription to one pays the consumer back countless times.

If you have already received your bulletin, you're now in business. If you have yet to subscribe to one, consider asking for your subscription to include at least the previous month's issue – maybe even two months' back issues. As the information is usually not repeated, the details on the offers mentioned above along with many others are only available now in these back issues.

To avoid confusion and frustration, it is really important to take a little time to organize your refunding efforts. After trying different systems, ranging from index cards to various notebooks, I have finally settled on one notebook system that serves me well. You might consider patterning your notebook after this one.

The ideal size for this loose-leaf notebook, which travels to stores with me, and includes in the front my regular weekly shopping list and lists of other errands to be performed, is 8½" x 5½". That is actually the size of the index and paper, the notebook being a little larger than that. My notebook also has convenient inside envelopes on both front and back covers, where I keep "cash-off coupons" (another subject for another week) and new refund forms as I find them in the stores.

In the notebook, I have an alphabetical index and a monthly index. The alphabetical index is vital; the monthly index is optional. These index dividers can be as simple as plastic tabs glued to pieces of paper. Or you may decide to in vest in more expensive, but much sturdier leather tab index dividers.

The paper, too, can be the usual lined loose-leaf paper or more expensive columnar paper. One pack of the columnar paper lasts well over a year, and saves drawing all those vertical lines.

Within each section of the alphabetical index, put one or two sheets of paper. At the top of each sheet, put these columnar headings: Expiration Date; Source of Address; Product; Form; Amount of Refund; Date Sent; Date Received. Of course, you will want to abbreviate some of those. All the columns should range from one-half to one inch in width, with the exception of the "product" column, which requires at least two inches of space. The monthly index section, if you wish to use one, requires no columnar arrangement. Plain pages are adequate, as this section simply serves as a "tickler" or "reminder" file.

If you're not sure that refunding is going to appeal to you that much, at least save this column along with the previous refunding columns. Try it for a while on a much smaller scale than this. You may well decide, when the postman begins delivering those quarters and dollar bills, that it really is worth the little effort involved.

Next week, we'll discuss how to make this notebook system work for you.

Petpourri

BY JUDITH EISNER

Random Thoughts. . .

Did You Know: That some dogs and cats are allergic to flea collars? These are very wonderful aids in controlling pests, but must be used threee months of age.

If you have a nursing female, remove her flea collar when its wearer gets wet. This especially pertains to bathing a dog or letting him go swimming. Water speeds up the release of the pesticide in these collars, occasionally so much that a dog or cat may be overcome.

A good idea in using flea collars is to open the package and just let the collar "air out" for two days before putting it on the animal. Since these collars are good for 90 days, you aren't losing much, and some of the strongest initial pesticide release will occur off the pet.

Keep an eye on your dog or cat during the first day or two he wears the collar. If he seems lethargic or has trouble breathing, take the collar off. Try again in a few days. There are reported cases of dogs simply "wasing away" with no apparent medical cause, until a clever vet decided to remove the flea collar. Magical recovery!

. . . That puppies outgrow collars at an amazing rate. Check your pup's collar and flea collar at least every two weeks. If they are too tight, let out a notch. We saw, to our lasting horror, what a flea collar can do to a dog's neck when it is forgotten and the dog keeps on growing. Ghastly!

. . . That, according to conservative statistics, one female dog can be responsible for the birth of more than 4,300 puppies in the seven years following her first breeding! This includes, of course, the offspring of her female offspring and their female offspring . . . Did you know that the SPCA puts to sleep more than 300 animals a month (more in spring and summer). These are, for the most part, sound and healthy dogs and cats. puppies and kittens for whom there is no home! They represent the abandoned, the stray and the heartbreaking boxes of babies brought to the shelter because you let your female dog or cat have a litter "just for the fun of it," think of the thousands of loving animals no one wants. Monterey County is right in the middle of a terrible animal overpopulation crisis. Don't add to it!

. . . That there is a curly-coated cat called the Rex who finally offers hope to those previously allergic to cat hair? He is, from all reports, non-allergenic! And, taht there are now available from your allergist weekly shots which may put an end to your sufferings. If you've longed for a furry friend but can't bear to be in the same room with one, why not discuss this with your doctor?

. . . That the only hope for the manifold ills that beset this Nation are education and action. In the realm of animals, you can do both; you can help educate people simply by caring enough to stop the woman who locks her dog in an unventilated car, or the person who permits his cat to have successive litters of kittens, or teh child who pulls a puppy's tail. And you can join the fight against the destruction of our environment (and animals are a vital part of that environment) by supporting the various local and national associations dedicated to those ends. Not only people have the right to the pursuit of happiness; so do dogs and cats and deer and coyotes and wolves and sea lions and all the creatures, large and small, who call this Earth their home.

* * * *

If you have questions or problems about home pet care, you can send them to Petpourri, c/o Carmel Pine Cone, P.O. Box G1, Carmel, We will try to answer questions of general interest and of a non-veterinary nature, once a month.

Holy Terror

He's 62, weighs about 150, wears glasses, has had a respiratory ailment for more than 20 years.

But when five bully-boys disrupted his lecture on economics with shouts about taking over the class about discussing Vietnam, the Chicago 7 and other "more relevant" subjects, he told them to "shut up and sit down or get the hell out."

When they continued their demonstration he invited members of the class to join him, tok off his glasses and his coat and started toward the disturbers.

Brave advocates that they were, they left, shouting relevant obscenities.

The gutsy little prof is Henry T. Buechel, probably the most popular teacher on the University of Washington campus, and totally dedicated to his profession.

A campus radical in his youth, he declared after the incident that he had "talked too long as a free man to let any bullies push me around. I'm not about to let any slob come off the street and disrupt my classes."

To show his youthful convictions had not entirely faded away, Professor Buechel added that not even the university president would ever take over his class unless he threw him out first.

Any seconds for the nomination of Henry as Professor of the Month? Or Year?

Booklet by Dr. Vincent Peale bridges the generation gap

One of the world's most famous clergymen has entered the debate over the generation gap with a word of support for young people and an appeal to youth to let their parents do their own "thing" too.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale delcared that inhibited adults are as much to blame as uninhibited youth for the lack of communication between generations.

At the same time, he calls on youth to remember that "parents are also people." He urges them to think of their parents as men and women rather than mothers and fathers, letting them "be their own persons and accept them for what they are."

Dr. Peale, minister of Marble Collegiate Church in New York, author of best-selling books, columnist and lecturer, has responded to growing expressions of concern about the generation gap with a "mini-booklet" dealing with both sides of the problem.

Entitled Tune in on Life — You and the Generation Gap, the booklet is being distributed by the Foundation for Christian Living.

In Tune in on Life, which has a bright, psychedelic cover design, Dr. Peale declares that while youth and their parents must learn to understand one another, there is much to be said on the side of "offbeat young people."

"Of course," he acknowledges, "we've got to admit that some do go to extremes but actually young people don't bother me too much in this respect. Youth is the natural time for experimentation. It's the time for them to kick up their heels and to try to find out who they really are.

"What does bother me is not so much our 'uninhibited youth,' but our inhibited adults. Every day I meet someone who seems unhappy or frustrated about something."

Dr. Peale finds that many adults are "just plain afraid to be themselves," while large numbers of young people are finding sources of satisfaction and happiness some adults have not experienced.

Deploring drugs, drinking and sexual promiscuity, Dr. Peale also pleaded for greater understanding on both sides and called on old and young alike to "get high on God," beginning with a prayer: "Lord, turn me on. Help me to tune in on life."

"One booklet — isn't going to change everything," he concludes, "but it is a start.

Copies of Tune in on Life may be obtained free of charge by writing Box T, Foundation for Christian Living, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." This passage from Genesis is part of a Lesson-Sermon on "Man" to be read in Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Services will be held at First Church of Christ, Scientist, at 11 a.m. nd 5 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy comes the affirmation, "Man, made in His likeness, possesses, and reflects God's dominion over all the earth" (p. 516).

In medieval England, it was unlawful for any Christian to collect interest on loans.

What's in your future?

Life. You have it now, and you always will. Because God is your Life. Christ Jesus proved this. He proved the continuity of life. He said, "This is life eternal that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." You can learn the meaning of this promise and how it can help you today by reading this week's Bible Lesson in our study room.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

by Raymond MacDonald

Q. When we took my father to the hospital, the admitting office was hesitant about admitting him as a Medicare patient because he didn't have his Medicare card with him. He is over 65 and had his Social Security card with him. Why couldn't they have used that?

A. It had to be established that your father was entitled to Medicare benefits. The Social Security card doesn't do that. The easiest way to show Medicare entitlement is to show the Medicare card. Your father should carry his Medicare card with him at all times so that it will be readily available whenever needed.

Q. I am scheduled to undergo cataract surgery in 2 weeks. I will have to wear eyeglasses following the surgery and my doctor says Meducare will help pay for them. However, my neighbors say you are unable to reimburse her for the glasses she recently purchased. Who is right?

A. Medicare can help pay for the eyeglasses or contact lenses when they are used to replace the lens of the eye because of surgical removal or congenital absence. This includes corrective lenses after a cataract operation.

Q. I am nearsighted and I need new eyeglasses. I understand the law was changed so that Medicare will now pay for them. Am I right?

A. You are wrong. Where an examination is performed for the purpose of prescribing, fitting, or changing eyeglasses, Medicare will not pay for the examination or for the eyeglasses.

Dr. Pearson appointed to NSVPT society

Dr. Charles N. Pearson, Carmel optometrist, has been named a Fellow of the National Society for Vision and Perception Training, an organization of American and Canadian optometrists dedicated to helping persons with vision-perception learning problems.

To qualify for NSVPT, Dr. Pearson undertook extensive postdoctoral study and clinical work with patients. Announcement of his appointment came from Dr. Charles W. McQuarrie, Society president, from NSVPT national office in San Rafael.

Eric Garrison earns Eagle Scout rank

Eric Garrison was honored Feb. 19th as 140 scouts and guests gathered at the Boy Scout house for an Eagle Scout ceremony.

Scoutmaster Robert Pelton of Troop 32, which is sponsored by the Carmel Rotary Club, turned the Eagle ceremony over to the chairman of the Eagle Board of review, John Martin, who conducted the award.

Agustas Johnson, Dr. Gale Jacobsen, Lazlo Toldi and Richard Bennett all spoke on the qualifications for Eagle that Eric attained. This is the second major scouting award that Eric has received as he was honored at All Saints Church last year upon completing the difficult Episcopal God and Country medal.

Erick is a sophomore honor student at Carmel High School and was vice-president of the freshman class. He plays drum or trumpet in the marcing and pep bands, was tackle on the freshman and JV football teams, throws the discus and shot put during track season, and was manager of the wrestling team while he recuperated from a knee surgery sustained during the last football game of the season.

Eric also works on the CHS year book, belongs to the California Scholarship Federation, and is an Ault Scholar in history. He has served as a teenage advisor for the California Crime Omnibus bill and Acolyte Master for All Saints Episcopal Church.

NOTHING IS so heartwarming as having folks come in exclaiming over the rich aroma of Beef Pot au Feu on the boil . . . then telling us they read about it in the Pine Cone in Phoenix or St. Louis . . . and drooled just thinking about the goodies at the Keeping Room all the way from there to here.

You in the near vicinity have only to follow your noses up the Carmel Valley Road 12 miles to Pilot Road . . . turn left, and there between two nurseries on the left is the flagrantly fragrant Keeping Room Kitchen dishing out Dru's delectable delicacies from breakfasts, 8:30-11:00 to luncheons 12:00-3:00 daily except Monday. 659-2512.

Enos Fouratt's Specials

WHY NOT ACQUIRE YOUR RETIREMENT HOME NOW; lease it until you are ready for it and avoid the property appreciation you'll be paying for if you continue to procrastinate.

We have three homes, one of which should fit your requirements and your means:

1. Two-bedroom, one-bath, split-level contemporary up on Santa Rita. Loan can be assumed and the boost in interest rate can be absorbed by extending the amortization schedule. An excellent value at $27,500. Ask to see MLS 3430. Has built-in tenant.
2. Three bedrooms, two baths and a very fine tenant who would like a long lease. You can assume the 4½% loan and the owner will carry the balance as a 2nd TD with a reasonable down payment. You cannot match this one for $30,500 in Mission Fields. Exclusive – cooperation invited.
3. Two bedrooms, two baths, den or third bedroom, cul-de-sac location, POINT LOBOS VIEW – up on Martin Road in Hatton Fields – and owner will carry up to $40,000 at 7½% per annum with the balance due and payable in five years. That comes to $295.60 per month. Priced at just a little more than twice the lot value at $55,000.

An English Country Place
With Stunning Ocean Views

"Thine be ilka joy and treasure
Peace, Enjoyment, Love and Pleasure."
-- Robert Burns

What are your pleasures? BEAUTY IN YOUR SURROUNDINGS? This unmatched location in the Highlands, easily accessible, with fire protection, community water, city deliveries, still gives you the fabulous ocean views in a beautiful, wooded setting such as you'd expect to find only in a remote area of the Coast. FREINDS? This two-story English country house looks hospitable and is hospitable – with gracous living room, 17-foot dining room, solarium equally delightful with the sun streaming in or the night lights on the canyon and natural pool below. Three bedrooms and baths plus a guest apartment across the patio (a dream in itself), with its own superlative ocean views and sundeck. Only problem: your guests may stay forever!

INTERESTING HOUSE? This handsome home has all the lovely Cotswold charm of a buccolic country place, but it is city-modern and in mint condition. ENJOY QUIET PURSUITS OF YOUR OWN? There's a well planned study-library, a fine 37-foot green house (which grows spectacular orchids), gourmet kitchen, workshop space, sewing room – your hobbies are most welcome here, whatever their space requirements.

IN SUMMARY, the setting is sublime, and the house is perfection for your pleasures and treasures and the enjoyment of same in quiet and peaceful seclusion only 4 miles from Carmel. The price is just $130,000. If you think all this sounds like just another real estate ad, challenge us! We'll happily arrange for you to see for yourself.
